

ADMINISTRATIVE OPERATIONS & DOCUMENT MANAGEMENT

Project Overview

A portfolio case study demonstrating my experience supporting administrative operations through document organization, access management, communication group coordination, information maintenance, and administrative resource creation.

My Role

I support the organization by keeping internal information organized, accessible to the appropriate team members, and maintained across shared administrative resources.

Key Responsibilities

- Add new volunteers to relevant department communication groups
- Add volunteers to general volunteer and administrative communication groups
- Grant access to appropriate department folders in Google Drive
- Organize scattered documents and move files into their appropriate folders
- Identify and correct documents stored in the wrong location
- Maintain department and project folders
- Update organizational onboarding materials when project information changes
- Maintain volunteer information and records
- Locate relevant contact information when required for administrative follow-up
- Create recruitment forms, assessment forms, and surveys
- Keep administrative resources accessible to the appropriate team members
- Maintain appropriate access restrictions for sensitive volunteer information

Document Management Process

The document management process involves regularly reviewing shared resources, identifying misplaced or outdated information, and ensuring documents are stored in the appropriate location.

Access Management

Access is assigned according to a person's role and department. Department members receive access to the resources they need to perform their responsibilities, while sensitive volunteer information is restricted to authorized personnel.
